

Dear executives,

I am a web designer who has experience on contract and freelance. I am currently looking for a full-time job to develop and utilize my full capacity of skills. I find what you have to offer interesting and I wish to be part of your team. I have experience with html, css, javascript, jquery, bootstrap, responsive design, php, wordpress and I'm open to any assignments and internships. At the moment I have only to graduate from the New Bulgarian University of Computer Science. I take courses at SoftUni, Coursera, Udemy periodically to refresh and improve my knowledge. For three years in Lidango, I have proven my loyalty and respect as a front-end developer. The freelance projects allowed me to enrich myself further. As a working language, I deal with English and also volunteer in several eco-social causes with foreigners to improve it. I believe that the most valuable resource in our time is information, so it is important that we communicate with each other and know how we can help each other. Let's share the knowledge we have to move forward together. Thank you for your attention.

At your disposal,
